Rev. Amos A. Phelps,
Boston,
Mass.

26
Whitesboro, March 29, 1838. PHELPS MSS.
My dear bro. Phelps; Be so kind, as to hand the other half of this sheet to the Editor of Lion's Herald; & if he should insert the communication, pray see that it is correctly printed & send me a copy of the paper. I am an a "poor hand" to improve such occasions. I am so sorely pressed every day with business, which must be done; & withal, I have so poor an opinion of such a writer as "Amustus", that I can hardly persuade myself to notice his paragraphs.

I am sick of the Liberator. I have seen an end of all perfection. Mr. Boyle, I believe, we had an opportunity of questioning before our Presbytery; & I doubt whether any ~~man~~ could be found any where, which could have uttered more absurd nonsense.
He utterly denied, that he had any presumptuousness, of course responsibility; & alledged, that if such a thing as for him to sin were possible, it would be not his fault, but that of Jesus Christ. Where he had set up his mind, he declared, that a conclusion of his was as infallibly correct, as the omniscience of God. What influenced the Liberator may be expected on the whole to equal, I cannot conscientiously say; but I should think, that it must be doubtful.

And so, you could not come to us from Lenox.
We could not help expecting you. I take encouragement to hope that, we may see you here, we long from the general tenor of your letters.
May the Saviour guide & bless us all!
The N. E. Convention. I should much rejoice to attend such a meeting. Perhaps I may this year. I cannot well go to the meeting at N. Y. & Boston too; I have some thoughts of giving up the former for the sake of the latter. — We are in full operation at the dis-now; & am in a great deal to exercise our pith & courage, have something to accomplish. The Lord reigns; & blessed be our Rock!
Yours in the Saviour,
B. Green.
